DESCRIPTION

Mid-century meets contemporary design: the wooden front with design frame is a way of adding homely charm and a nostalgic touch to the kitchen. In the row of units, the oak veneer front with its narrow frame conveys calm and order. It is beautifully complemented by the built-in next125 glass display unit with ultragrey tinted glass doors. This ensemble of units embraces the down-to-earth elegance of the 1950s.

The kitchen island is finished entirely in ceramic bianco beige. This free-standing cube is made up of ample fronts, a 16mm thick Systemo worktop and slim 7mm side support panels and is an example of the characteristically uniform next125 design concept. The low plinth is set back into the carcass and takes the weight of this monolithic block.
